

Artificial Water Fluoridation Violates the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms

Safe Drinking Water – Basic Human Need – Basic Human Right

Drinking water is a basic human need which has been enshrined as a basic human right by the United Nations. Public drinking water should not be used to deliver medications.

Section 7: Life, liberty, security of person

Liberty and health security of Canadians is threatened when we are medicated without informed consent. We are medicated without informed consent when drinking water is artificially fluoridated.

Section 15: Equality Rights

Because drinking water is used to deliver this medication, it is impossible to control how much water, therefore fluoride, is consumed each day. This places unfair burdens, obligations and disadvantages on susceptible minorities who are over-exposed to these products.
